

Fordham University, Department of Psychology: 3 tenure-track positions: 2 clinical and 1 applied developmental. The Department of Psychology offers doctoral programs in Clinical Psychology, Applied Developmental Psychology (ADP), and Psychometrics at the Rose Hill (Bronx) campus and undergraduate programs at Rose Hill and Lincoln Center (Manhattan) campuses. Responsibilities for all positions include undergraduate and graduate teaching; developing an independent, externally-funded program of research; and mentoring students in masters and doctoral level research. Applicants with a strong track record of or potential for publication and external funding are sought for all positions. The Clinical Psychology program seeks one Assistant Professor and one rank open. Our APA-approved, Boulder model program offers specializations in Child/Family, Forensic, Health/Neuropsychology, and Spirituality. Applicants' focus on adult or child psychopathology, psychological assessment, or psychotherapy outcome research and an ability to contribute to one or more of the program's specializations are desirable but not critical; strong applicants are encouraged to apply regardless of research area. Fordham is an independent, Catholic University in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from men and women of all backgrounds. Minorities are encouraged to apply. Fordham is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Applications review will begin October 1, 2007 and will continue until the positions are filled. Please send vita, evidence of teaching credentials, representative publications, and three letters of reference to Frederick J. Wertz, Chair, Psychology Department, Fordham University, Bronx, NY 10458-5198 or wertz@fordham.edu.
