Fordham University, Department of Psychology:  Assistant Professor (tenure-track) position in Social Psychology to begin August 2020. The Department of Psychology is seeking a Social Psychologist candidate with an established record of publications, teaching experience and a history of success or potential for securing external funding. The ideal candidate will contribute to one or more of our graduate programs. A focus on applied aspects of social psychology, such as social justice, racism, aggression, behavioral economics, etc., are particularly appealing, but candidates with any area of specialization are encouraged to apply. Responsibilities include teaching undergraduate and graduate courses, establishing and maintaining a productive independent program of research, and mentoring undergraduate research and graduate students’ theses and dissertations. The Department of Psychology currently offers doctoral degrees in Applied Developmental Psychology, Clinical Psychology, and Psychometric/Quantitative Psychology, along with Master’s degrees in Applied Psychological Methods and Clinical Research Methods; a fourth doctoral program in Cognitive psychology is currently under development. The Department is located on both campuses of Fordham University, with the graduate programs located at our Rose Hill campus in the Bronx and undergraduate programs at both the Rose Hill and Lincoln Center (Manhattan) campuses, though this position will be based at the Rose Hill (Bronx) campus.

Fordham is an independent, Catholic university in the Jesuit tradition that is committed to excellence through diversity and welcomes candidates from all backgrounds. Fordham is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. The University and department have a strong commitment to achieving diversity among faculty, staff and students. We are particularly interested in receiving applications from members of underrepresented groups and strongly encourage persons of color to apply.

Please send a CV, a statement of your research and teaching interests, evidence of teaching credentials, representative publications, and three letters of reference. All application materials should be submitted electronically through interfolio (apply.interfolio.com/67736). Review of application materials will begin on October 18, 2019 and continue until the position is filled. Inquiries should be directed to our department administrator, Maria Barbieri (barbieri@fordham.edu) or department Chair, Barry Rosenfeld (rosefeld@fordham.edu).