

One-Year Lectureship
Department of Theology
Fordham University

The Department of Theology, Fordham University, seeks to appoint a full time lecturer for academic year 2021-2022, to teach in the department's core undergraduate curriculum.

The lecturer's duties will be to teach four undergraduate core curriculum courses each semester; teaching assignments will likely consist primarily of the department's introductory course, "Faith and Critical Reason" (THEO 1000), with the additional possibility of one or more second-tier "Sacred Texts and Traditions" courses depending on curricular needs. Area of specialization is open, but candidates should be prepared to introduce students in THEO 1000 to comparative methods and questions of religious pluralism. Teaching may be at any campus of Fordham University.

Required is an earned doctorate. Competitive compensation and benefits. A complete application consists of a personal letter of application, CV, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and the names of two references. Applications must be received by 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, July 6th for full consideration. All application materials must be submitted through Interfolio. Follow this link to apply for the position and receive your free Interfolio account: <http://apply.interfolio.com/89448>

Please address any questions to Christine Firer Hinze, Chair, Department of Theology, at hinze@fordham.edu. Late or incomplete applications may not be considered.

Fordham University is an independent, Catholic university in the Jesuit tradition that welcomes applications from men and women of all backgrounds. Fordham University is committed to excellence through diversity and welcomes candidates of all backgrounds; it is an equal opportunity employer.