Call for proposals:
Northeast Philosophy of Religion Colloquium

The Northeast Philosophy of Religion Colloquium (NEPRC) was initiated by graduate students and faculty from the Philosophy and Theology departments at Fordham University and Boston College to foster communication, conversation, and collaboration at the intersection of philosophy, theology, and religion.

February 25-26, 2022
Collins Hall, Fordham University

Keynote Speaker: Dr. Christina Van Dyke
Emeritus Professor, Calvin University

We invite proposals for our fourth annual colloquium from students working in philosophy of religion or theology (broadly construed). Format requirements are intentionally left open and could include:

- Panel or round table discussions on specific topics of interest
- Discussion about a book or film read/watched
- Discussion of a primary text or a striking passage in such a text
- Brief presentation of a current research project for feedback and discussion

DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION:
JANUARY 15, 2022
Email to: fordhambcneprc@gmail.com