

The International Law Journal Symposium presents

Defining The New Normal
How Vaccinations are Shaping the Modern World

February 18, 2022
10 a.m. - 3 p.m. EDT
Zoom Webinar

CLE COURSE MATERIALS

FORDHAM UNIVERSITY
THE SCHOOL OF LAW

Table of Contents

1. Speaker Biographies (view in document)
2. CLE Materials

International Law Journal Symposium Defining The New Normal How Vaccinations are Shaping the Modern World

Panel 1: Vaccin[nations]: How We Close the Global Vaccine Equity Gap

- <https://jamanetwork.com/journals/jama/fullarticle/2787943?resultClick=1>
- <https://www.pih.org/article/why-equitable-global-covid-19-vaccine-distribution-essential>
- <https://blog.petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/2022/01/06/nih-moderna-mrna-covid-vaccine-patent/>

Panel 2: Data Privacy and the Pandemic

- <https://bit.ly/3oTtW3g>.
- <https://www.tcd.ie/law/2020.21/Data-Protection-and-COVID19%20Report.pdf>
- <https://www.brookings.edu/blog/techtank/2021/06/28/vaccine-passports-underscore-the-necessity-of-u-s-privacy-legislation/>

Panel 3: Back to Work: Vaccine Mandates in the Post-Covid Workplace

- <https://blog.petrieflom.law.harvard.edu/2021/01/20/covid-19-vaccine-misinformation-anti-vaccine-movement/#more-29693>
- <https://www.shrm.org/resourcesandtools/hr-topics/global-hr/pages/coronavirus-italy-green-pass-mandatory-vaccinations.aspx>
- <https://jamanetwork.com/journals/jama/fullarticle/2788486>

International Law Journal 2022 Symposium Speaker Biographies

Jorge Contreras

Jorge Contreras is a Presidential Scholar and Professor at the University of Utah S.J. Quinney College of Law, where his research focuses on intellectual property, technical standards, antitrust law and science policy. He has written or edited eleven books and published more than one hundred book chapters and scholarly articles on these topics. His most recent book, The Genome Defense: Inside the Epic Legal Battle to Determine Who Owns Your DNA (New York: Algonquin, 2021) tells the story of the litigation that ended gene patenting in America. His work on standards and standardization has received numerous awards and has been cited by government agencies and courts in the United States, Europe and Asia. Professor Contreras is a frequent lecturer and speaker on these topics, and teaches an annual course on patent litigation, standards and pools at East China University of Political Science and Law (ECUPL).

Paul Diller

Paul Diller is currently a visiting professor at Lewis & Clark Law School in Portland, Oregon, and a professor of law at Willamette University in Salem, Oregon. His professional work has focused on state and local government law, state constitutional law, and public health law. He has written extensively about local authority and state limitations thereon, as well as how federalism affects the state-local balance of power. Diller has also written and consulted on local strategies to improve public health, such as promoting nutritious food and reducing tobacco use. More recently, Diller has focused on the constitutional issues raised by states' response to the COVID-19 pandemic. In 2020 he designed a new course focusing on the legal implications of the pandemic that he has now taught three times at two law schools, continuing to update it along the way. Diller was a participant in the National League of Cities' Home Rule for the 21st Century Project in 2019-20.

Diller graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Michigan Law School, both magna cum laude. After law school, he clerked for Chief Judge Edward R. Becker of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. He was a trial attorney in the Civil Division of the U.S. Department of Justice in Washington, D.C., where he litigated constitutional, employment discrimination and Freedom-of-Information-Act cases, among others. Diller has previously been a visiting professor at the University of Michigan Law School.

Francesca Gaudino

Francesca Gaudino is the Head of Baker McKenzie's Information Technology & Communications Group in Milan. She focuses on data protection and security, advising particularly on legal issues that arise in the use of cutting-edge technology. She has been recognized in Chambers Europe's individual lawyer rankings from 2011 to 2014. Gaudino is a regular contributor to international publications such as World Data Protection Review, DataGuidance, and others. She routinely holds lectures on data privacy and security at post-graduate courses of SDA – Manager Direction School of the Milan Bocconi University and Almaweb – University of Bologna. She regularly speaks at national and international conferences and workshops on the same topics..

Maria Grazia Porcedda

Dr. Maria Grazia Porcedda is Assistant Professor of Information Technology Law at Trinity

College Dublin. Maria

Grazia’s research addresses the relationship between law and technology and in particular matters of privacy, data protection, cyber security and cybercrime in EU law. Maria Grazia has published contributions in leading law and technology and computer science venues and her monograph, ‘Cybersecurity, Privacy and Data Protection in EU Law’ is due to appear with Hart Publishing in 2022.

Before joining the School of Law at Trinity College Dublin, Maria Grazia was a Research Fellow in the Centre for Criminal Justice Studies at the University of Leeds and worked in a research capacity at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies, the Department of Law at the European University Institute and the Centre de Recherche Information, Droit et Société of the University of Namur. She trained on privacy and security matters at the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development and the European Data Protection Supervisor. Maria Grazia holds a PhD in Law and an LL.M. from the European University, an M.A. in International Relations from the University of Bologna with honours from Collegio Superiore and has visited, among others, Johns Hopkins SAIS, École Normale Supérieure de Lyon and University of California at Berkeley.

Wendy Luftig

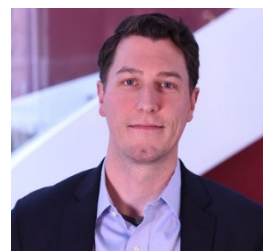

Wendy Luftig is a seasoned health care attorney with experience in a variety of sectors, including industry, non-profit academic medical centers, and legal entities. She is currently a Senior Manager at Novartis Pharmaceuticals Corporation, where she oversees a portfolio of legal documentation related to medical research for complex, multi-site clinical trials. Prior to assuming an industry role, Luftig worked in the Office of Science and Research at NYU Langone Medical Center negotiating transactional agreements with pharmaceutical companies, private foundations, and governmental entities, such as the NIH and CDC. Earlier in her career, she practiced as a corporate litigator at several major New York firms, including Dewey Ballantine.

Luftig is a former Chair of the Bioethical issues Committee of the New York City Bar Association and a recipient of the 2012 Jeremy Epstein Award for pro bono service for her work representing cancer patients through the Cancer Advocacy Project of the City Bar Justice Center. She has published in the areas of bioethics and organ transplantation.

Since 2015, she has served as an Adjunct Law Professor at Fordham Law School, teaching seminars in Health Care Policy & the Law and Pharmaceutical Law.

Ms. Luftig received her J.D. from Columbia University School of Law, where she was a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar, has done graduate work in bioethics at Columbia University and holds an undergraduate degree from Hamilton College.

Tom Norton

Tom Norton is the Executive Director of the Fordham Center on Law and Information Policy (CLIP) and an adjunct professor of law at Fordham University School of Law. His research and teaching focus on information law topics. Tom earned a JD from Fordham and served as CLIP's Privacy Fellow from 2014 to 2016. Prior to rejoining CLIP as Executive Director, Norton was a litigation attorney at the law firm Arent Fox LLP in New York City.

Jennifer Nuzzo

Dr. Nuzzo is a Senior Scholar at the Johns Hopkins Center for Health Security, an Associate Professor in the Department of Environmental Health and Engineering and the Department of Epidemiology at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, and a Senior Fellow for Global Health at the Council on Foreign Relations. She is also the lead epidemiologist for the Johns Hopkins COVID-19 Testing Insights Initiative housed within the Johns Hopkins Coronavirus Resource Center. An epidemiologist by training, her work focuses on global health security, with a focus on pandemic preparedness, outbreak detection and response, health systems as they relate to global health security, biosurveillance, and infectious disease diagnostics.

Dr. Nuzzo received a DrPH in epidemiology from the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health, an SM in environmental health from Harvard University, and a BS in environmental sciences from Rutgers University.

Artur Pericles Lima Monteiro

Artur Pericles L. Monteiro is a visiting fellow at the Information Society Project, Yale Law School. He is also a researcher at the Constitution, Politics & Institutions Research Group at the University of São Paulo, Brazil, and head of research, freedom of expression, at InternetLab, a Brazilian center on law and technology. He is a co-editor of the Digital Future Whitepaper Series (Information Society Project, Yale Law School), and leads the freedom of expression clinic at the Center for Law, Internet, and Society (University of São Paulo). He holds an LL.B. and an M.Sc. (distinction) from the University of São Paulo, where he is also a doctoral candidate. Previously, he practiced law in Brazil, advising national and international clients on data protection, technology, and intellectual property. He was also a law clerk for an appellate judge sitting at the São Paulo Court of Justice. His doctoral research focuses on privacy and encryption. He is also working on projects on anonymity on the internet, content moderation, and platform governance.

Dorit Reiss

Dorit R. Reiss is a professor of law at the University of California, Hastings College of the Law who specializes in vaccines law and policy, including exemption laws and tort liability related to non-vaccination. She published law review articles, peer reviewed articles and blog posts on legal issues related to vaccines.

She received an undergraduate degree in Law and Political Science (1999, Magna cum Laude) from the Faculty of Law in the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. She received her Ph.D. from the Jurisprudence and Social Policy program in UC Berkeley.

She is a member of the Parents Advisory Board of Voices for Vaccines and the the Vaccine Working Group on Ethics and Policy, and active in vaccine advocacy in other ways.

Aaron Saiger

Aaron Saiger is Professor of Law at Fordham University School of Law, where he has taught since 2003, and where he was the Dean's Distinguished Scholar from 2017-2018. His writing and teaching on education law focus on governance, curriculum, and technology. He also writes and teaches in the areas of administrative law and property. Saiger holds a AB from Harvard College, a JD from Columbia University, and a PhD from Princeton University. He clerked for Judge Douglas Ginsberg of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit, and for Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg of the U.S. Supreme Court. His forthcoming book, Schoolhouse in the Cloud, will be published by the Oxford University Press.

Garrett Wilkinson

Garrett Wilkinson is the Government Relations & Policy Officer at Partners In Health, a global health and social justice organization working in 12 countries to provide a preferential option for the poor in health care. For the past year, Garrett has led Partners In Health's advocacy campaign to win universal access to high-quality COVID-19 vaccines. His analysis and activism on global vaccine equity have been featured in popular outlets such as the Washington Post and MSNBC. Garrett holds an MSc in Public Health from the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine and an MSc in Medical Anthropology from the University of Edinburgh, which he earned on a Marshall Scholarship.

Lisa V. Zivkovic

Dr. Lisa V. Zivkovic is an attorney in the Privacy + Data Security practice group at Morrison & Foerster LLP. Her practice focuses on assisting clients with global data privacy compliance, data breach response and planning, cyber fraud, data security planning, cross-border data transfers, information management, cloud computing, and government investigations. She has experience advising her clients on a number of U.S. and international privacy laws, including: The California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA), The EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), The Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, The Federal Trade Commission Act, The Electronic Communications Privacy Act, and The Children's Online Privacy Protection Rule.

Zivkovic received her Ph.D. at New York University in the history of data privacy in the United States and Europe. Her scholarship and by extension her practice emphasize the importance of understanding the underlying technology of communication network systems to inform her analysis of the law and policy. At Fordham University School of Law, where she received her Juris Doctor, she was a Decennial Fellow at the Center of Law and Information Policy and she completed a legal externship in the Bureau of Internet and Technology at the Office of the New York Attorney General.

Zivkovic served as Young Privacy Professional of the International Association of Privacy Professionals' New York KnowledgeNet Chapter in 2020, and is a member of the American Bar Association.