NEH Deadline: September 21, 2022

From the NEH website:
The National Endowment for the Humanities’ Summer Stipends program aims to stimulate new research in the humanities and its publication. The program works to accomplish this goal by:

• Providing small awards ($6,000) to individuals pursuing advanced research that is of value to humanities scholars, general audiences, or both.
• Supporting projects at any stage of development, but most especially early-stage research and late-stage writing in which small awards are most effective

Summer Stipends support continuous full-time work on a humanities project for a period of two consecutive months. NEH funds may support recipients’ compensation, travel, and other costs related to the proposed scholarly research.

Page 1 of the NEH Summer Stipends’ Notice of Funding Opportunity (also known as the guidelines) has a link to previously funded Summer Stipends proposals in the sentence beginning, ‘Examples of previously…’ Potential applicants may benefit from reviewing these for the style, content, and format of past grantees.

The award is for individual scholars who have been nominated by their institution. Fordham may nominate only two faculty members.

Instructions

• To be considered for this limited submission, submit a three-page, single-spaced narrative description of your proposed project, a one-page bibliography, and two-page cv to Beth by September 1. Follow the guidelines in preparing your submission.

• Read all of the guidelines’ instructions. Instructions for writing the narrative begin on page 11: https://www.neh.gov/sites/default/files/inline-files/Summer%20Stipends%202022%20and%202023.pdf
