COLLEGE/DIVISION Arts and Sciences

DEPARTMENT/AREA Theology

TYPE Non-Tenure Track

TITLE Lecturer

POSITION DESCRIPTION

The Department of Theology at Fordham University invites applications, subject to final budgetary approval, for a Lecturer position. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible position, to begin in Fall of 2022, with an initial term of one year, and with the possibility of renewal contingent upon performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the unit.

Lecturers' duties normally consist of teaching 4 sections of 25-35 students in each of the fall and spring semesters. Courses will be taught at Fordham's Rose Hill (Bronx) campus.

REQUIREMENTS

Candidates will have earned a Ph.D. in some area of Theology and have shown potential for excellence in undergraduate teaching. Primary teaching will be in Theology core courses, Faith and Critical Reason, Sacred Texts and Traditions, as well as Introduction to Bioethics. Preference for candidates with the ability to teach bioethics with attention to religious diversity and to issues of racial, ethnic, and gender inequity.

We are especially interested in candidates who have had success in teaching introductory and core courses, who have shown the ability to meet the needs of diverse student populations and who are committed to a student-centered and innovative pedagogical practice.

Successful candidates should have a knowledge of and commitment to the goals of Jesuit Education.

HOW TO APPLY

The Department of Theology values diversity among its members, is committed to building a diverse intellectual community, and strongly encourages applications from all underrepresented groups. Further details about our department may be found at <https://www.fordham.edu/info/21593/theology>

Address inquiries by email to Christine Firer Hinze, Chair, Fordham Department of Theology at hinze@fordham.edu. Applications should be submitted online through Interfolio (<http://apply.interfolio.com/109618>), and should include a cover letter, a curriculum vitae, a short teaching statement documenting any relevant experience, and names and contact information for up to four references, at least two of whom should be able to speak to your teaching experience.

To receive fullest consideration, applications should be submitted as soon as possible; applications will be reviewed beginning July 20, and will remain open until the position is filled.
