Department of Political Science, Fordham University

MAJOR Advising Checklist

All majors must complete a minimum of 10 (TEN) semester courses in political science, including Introduction to Politics (POSC 1100) and at least one course at the 2000 or 3000 level from three of the four following subfields:

a. American Politics
b. Comparative Politics
c. International Politics
d. Political Theory.

In the junior or senior year, majors must complete a 4000-level seminar (or a tutorial, with departmental approval) and a political science course designated as Methods Intensive. The remaining four courses are electives that can be any political science course above the 1000-level. Seniors with a cumulative GPA of 3.3 or higher may enroll in 5000-level graduate courses. Undergraduate credit is granted for such courses.

Checklist:

1 (ONE) Required Introductory Course:
☐ POSC 1100 Introduction to Politics

1 (ONE) Methods Intensive Course in Political Science
☐

3 (THREE) Courses in 3 out of 4 Subfields at the 2000 or 3000-level (with 1 course per subfield):
☐ American Politics
☐ Comparative Politics
☐ International Politics
☐ Political Theory

4 (FOUR) Electives in Political Science above the 1000-level:
☐ ____________________________________________________________
☐ ____________________________________________________________
☐ ____________________________________________________________
☐ ____________________________________________________________

1 (ONE) 4000-level Seminar (to be taken in junior or senior year):
☐ ____________________________________________________________

(refer to Undergraduate Bulletin for courses & course descriptions)