I. Welcome and Introduction

We are delighted to welcome you as you a Visiting Foreign Scholar or Research Fellow (collectively, VSR) at Fordham Law School. This handbook is intended to set forth some expectations that we have of you as a VSR and to give you more information about the program. Please keep this Handbook with you so that you can refer to it as necessary.

As detailed below, the VSR program is intended to be full-time and participants should plan to engage in their academic activities accordingly. The position of VSR at Fordham Law School is not compatible with a job or internship. We also expect that all participants in the VSR program will read the weekly newsletter that we circulate among the VSR community, which contains important information about the program and events. VSR participants are also expected to attend the regularly scheduled seminars that are held as part of this program. Failure to comply with these basic requirements may result in a suspension of VSR privileges, including visa status for those in the United States on a visa procured with paperwork provided by Fordham University.

II. Before you Arrive

A. Visas

Some of you may be participating in our VSR program with a visa based on documentation from Fordham University. Such applicants received with their letter of invitation instructions to request their DS 2019. Please complete these online forms and contact the below with any questions:

Ms. Kimberly Carr
Fordham University's Office for International Services
oisjscholar@fordham.edu

B. Planning your Initial Visit to Fordham University School of Law

Please email vsr@fordham.edu at least one month before your arrival to schedule a date for your orientation. The Office of International and Non-J.D. Programs will schedule orientation meetings at the convenience of the Office and of other arriving scholars to make these meetings the most efficient.

C. Claiming Your Fordham Account

Approximately two weeks before your arrival date, you will receive instructions on claiming your Fordham account, which will provide you with a Fordham email address and access to a number of electronic resources. Because there are sometimes complications during the claims process, we ask that visitors claim their account as soon as possible so that they may troubleshoot any issues well in advance of arriving. An active Fordham account will also be necessary to receive timely updates from the University and to enroll in the VitalCheck protocol, which is outlined in more detail below.

D. Immunization and VitalCheck Requirements

All visitors must be fully vaccinated and boosted with a WHO-approved vaccine against COVID-19. There are no exceptions to this rule, and Fordham University reserves the right to mandate additional boosters in the future per advise from the New York State health authority and the CDC.

In advance of arrival, Fordham's VitalCheck health screening protocol will contact VSRs at their Fordham email addresses and request that they upload proof of vaccination to enable their access to campus. It is critical that this email be responded to in a timely fashion so that the VitalCheck team has adequate time to evaluate the proof supplied and apply it to individual accounts; and because the format of vaccine documentation differs from country to country, which may require additional processing time.

E. Housing

Fordham Law School regrets that it cannot provide housing for visitors or assistance in locating housing in New York City. There are a number of Internet sites that visitors may find useful in locating housing. Some commonly used sites for short-term housing are www.streeteasy.com, www.sabbaticalhomes.com, www.vrbo.com, and www.airbandb.com (note that many short-term rental sites are severely restricted within New York City). Participants who intend to secure accommodations independently are reminded to exercise caution when making arrangements. International visitors trying to secure housing while abroad are particularly prone to fraud. Avoid any arrangement that requires a wire transfer before arrival.

Visitors may also wish to apply for housing at the International House, located in uptown Manhattan. Visit <http://www.ihouse-nyc.org/>. For visits under 4 weeks, visitors may seek housing at the West Side YMCA. Visit <http://www.ymcanyc.org/index.php?id=1382>.

Please note that the Law School does not recommend or endorse any of these services or accommodations and provides them simply as a convenience to visitors.

Fordham Law School at Lincoln Center is centrally located by Columbus Circle in Manhattan, and convenient to many subway and bus routes. Housing in Manhattan is generally expensive. Less expensive yet convenient housing may be located in Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx, and New Jersey.

III. Services Available for Visitors

A. Newsletter for Visiting Foreign Scholars and Research Fellows

Each week, the Office of International and Non-J.D. Programs circulates to all VSRs an electronic newsletter containing information about upcoming events and other items of interest to the VSR community. Participants are expected to read the newsletter and take note of required seminars and other events.

Participants may send to vsr@fordham.edu information for posting in the newsletter.

B. Information About Visitors

Each week, along with the newsletter, participants will receive a list of other VSR program participants currently in residence, along with their email addresses and basic information. We urge you to use this information to get to know your colleagues as they will form an important part of your professional network.

C. Electronic Identification Cards

Before your arrival, you will receive instructions for creating an electronic ID, accessible via an app on your phone, which will allow you to enter the Law School building. (VSRs are not entitled to physical identification cards, pursuant to updated University guidelines.) When entering the building, hold your phone up to the electronic access ports. During certain times of the year, you will also need to display ID to enter the Law School library. This identification may also entitle you to certain discounts at the University bookstore, food service areas, and select area stores. More information is available online.

D. Social Security Numbers

Fordham University does not issue Social Security cards – Social Security numbers are issued only by the federal government and not by academic or other institutions. In most cases, Law School visitors will not be eligible to receive social security numbers. If you think you may qualify to receive a social security number, please visit <http://www.ssa.gov/ssnumber/>.

E. Bank Accounts

Some visitors will want a U.S. bank account. Banks request a letter of residence to issue accounts. Often the letter of invitation will prove sufficient. If not, please ask Ms. Carr to provide such a letter.

F. Attending Classes at Fordham Law School

Visiting Foreign Scholars and Visiting Research Fellows are occasionally given permission to audit one course, subject to space constraints, the nature of the course, and the permission of the instructor. Such permission is facilitated through our office. Fordham Law professors are understandably quite busy and you should not contact them directly. Once you are here, we will be glad to facilitate introductions and provide additional information about the possibility of auditing classes.

If you are approved to audit a course, please introduce yourself to the professor at the start of class. You should also allow registered students to take their seats first before selecting a seat for yourself, or the professor will assign you a seat based on their seating chart.

G. VSR Seminar Series

Our office organizes regularly scheduled seminars at which our Visiting Foreign Scholars and Visiting Research Fellows present their research.

All visitors are invited to make a presentation. If you would like to give a presentation, please contact vsr@fordham.edu to schedule it at least one month in advance to ensure that we are able to accommodate everyone. Certificates are granted to document the presentation.

All visitors are required to attend these sessions, which are listed in the weekly newsletter. In order to be excused from attending a seminar, you must request a waiver in advance by email to vsr@fordham.edu. Illness is a valid excuse; invalid excuses include extended family travel, regular childcare duties, and other meetings. After two unexcused absences in any given semester, your status and privileges as a Visiting Scholar or Research Fellow will be revoked and your ID will be deactivated. In addition, anyone on a visa supported by documentation provided by Fordham University will be reported to the Office for International Services, which will inform the immigration authorities that you are out of compliance with your visa.

H. Travel Away From Fordham

While staying as our invited visitor, we expect that you will be engaged in your research and writing as a full-time endeavor, and that most of your work will be undertaken at Fordham. If you need to be away from Fordham, to attend a conference or for any other reason, please contact our office at least two weeks in advance of your time away indicating the dates you plan to be away and the purpose of your trip. Absences for more than one week are generally incompatible with your status as a VSR.

Visitors on a visa supported by documentation from Fordham must also contact Ms. Carr if they plan to be away from New York City or leave the country for any reason. Permission for trips is considered on a case-by-case basis in conference with the OIS.

I. Meeting Fordham Law Faculty

Most Fordham Law professors are very interested in meeting visitors to our Law School. At the same time, they are very busy with their teaching, scholarship, and administrative duties and other activities. If you are interested in meeting with a faculty member, please do not contact them directly. Please contact us and we will make the initial introduction. Please note that the VSR program neither provides faculty supervisors nor conducts supervision of research projects.

A searchable directory of Law School faculty members and administration can be found at <http://law.fordham.edu/faculty>. If you are looking for faculty members in a particular research area, you can also view that list online.

J. Library Facilities

All visitors have access to the Fordham Law Library. Seating space is available on a first-come, first-served basis, and VSRs cannot reserve study rooms in the Library. Access to library resources and materials varies depending on the duration of a research stay, and interlibrary loans are off-limits to visitors. More detailed information will be provided at orientation.

1. Locating Materials in the Law Library

The main source of information for locating Fordham Law School Library materials is FULLPAC, the online catalog of the Library's holdings. FULLPAC can be accessed via dedicated terminals in the Library and via the web from any computer connected to the Internet at <http://lawpac.lawnet.fordham.edu>.

FULLPAC can be searched by author, title, combined author and title, subject, or keyword. Here a few tips for searching:

- Keyword searches are especially useful when you are not sure of the exact title, or you don't know the formal subject heading.
- If your search yields a large list of titles, you can limit the search set by year, publisher, or words in the author or title. Follow the instructions on the Limit Screen to do this.
- If you find a particularly useful book, you can locate other materials under the same subject heading by selecting the appropriate hyperlinked subject heading.

Each catalog record shows holdings and location information. To see which stack level a call number is on, check the call number location chart, posted in various locations throughout the library. You can also use the search on the Library's landing page, law.fordham.edu/library, to search for materials across physical and electronic holdings.

Please ask a Reference Librarian to assist you if you have trouble locating materials in the catalog or for any assistance regarding your research. Reference Librarians are situated directly in front of the entrance to the library, and are available to assist you without an appointment.

2. Computer Lab

The Computer Lab offers access to word processing, spreadsheets, e-mail, and the web, among other services. Please note that spaces in the computer lab are extremely limited, and it is recommended that visitors bring their own laptop computers to Fordham. The computer lab is located on Floor 6, Room 15.

3. Photocopying and Printing

Photocopier machines are located throughout the Law Library and the Law School. In order to print, visitors will need to create a Pharos account. For instructions on creating an account as a guest, adding funds to the account, and submitting print jobs, visit the IT Department's webpage.

K. Fordham University Wireless Internet

During your orientation, you will be given information as to how to access the Fordham wireless network. If you have any issues with wireless access, please contact the Fordham Law Help Desk at +1.212.636.6786.

L. Westlaw Access

Prior to or soon after your arrival, you will be emailed a password that will allow you to conduct research through Westlaw's extensive online database. From time to time, we schedule trainings on how to effectively research using Westlaw. If you are interested in receiving such training, please send an email to vsr@fordham.edu and we will do our best to arrange it.

We schedule occasional gatherings to give visitors an opportunity to meet in a more informal setting. Please look for details in the weekly newsletter.

P. Employment/Internships
