Sapientia et Doctrina

Wisdom and Learning

“Wisdom and learning shall be the stability of thy times.”

—Adapted from Isaiah 33:6

The Fordham University Seal

The Great Seal of Fordham University proclaims that Fordham has been a Jesuit university since its founder, Archbishop John Hughes, entrusted it to the care of the Society of Jesus five years after its founding in 1841. Hence, the coat of arms of the Society of Jesus stands at the center of the Great Seal of the University. The coat of arms bears the Greek letters for the name Jesus—IHS—with the cross resting in the horizontal line of the letter H, and the three nails beneath in a field framed in maroon, the color of the University, with fleurs-de-lis on the edge of the maroon frame. Around the Society’s coat of arms is a scroll with the University’s motto, Sapientia et Doctrina (Wisdom and Learning). The scroll rests on a field in which tongues of fire are displayed, recalling the outpouring of the gifts of the Holy Spirit of wisdom (sapientia) that marked the first Pentecost.

A laurel wreath at the center of which are listed the names of the disciplines that are or have been taught at the University rests at the top of the seal. (The University had a medical school from 1905 to 1919 and a College of Pharmacy from 1912 to 1971.) These central heraldic devices are enclosed within a circular field fashioned as a belt and edged with beads. The field bears the University’s name (rendered in Latin) and the date of its foundation. Fordham University is one of only two institutions in the world whose seals are enclosed with a belt surround. Oxford University, the mother of the universities in the English-speaking world, is the other university whose seal is fashioned in this way.

Fordham: A Story of Transformation

Fordham University began in the mind and heart of John Hughes, the Irish-born Catholic bishop who would later become the first archbishop of New York. He believed fervently in the power of education to help downtrodden Catholic immigrants advance in America, and traveled as far as Europe to raise funds for buying the plot of rustic land north of Manhattan—in what is today the Bronx—where he saw a great university taking root. Initially named St. John's College, the school opened at Rose Hill on June 24, 1841, with just six students but big ambitions. St. John's became a Jesuit college five years later, after Hughes sold it to the Society of Jesus.

In 1907, St. John's College was renamed Fordham University—a transformation that began two years earlier with the opening of its first graduate schools: a medical school, discontinued in 1921, and a law school that is widely regarded today as one of the best in the nation. Graduate schools of education, arts and sciences, and social service were established in 1916, and the School of Accounting—forerunner of the Gabelli School of Business—opened in 1920, housed in Manhattan's Woolworth Building. A college of pharmacy was also established in this period, lasting until 1971. In 1944, Fordham founded what would become the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, and the Graduate School of Religion and Religious Education began in 1969.

The establishment of the Lincoln Center campus in the 1960s was a milestone in the University's rise to greater prominence. In the following decades, Fordham made major strides toward becoming a national and global institution with the opening of new residence halls at both the Rose Hill and Lincoln Center campuses; the construction of the William D. Walsh Family Library at Rose Hill; the opening of the Fordham London campus; and the Lincoln Center campus redevelopment completed in 2016.

As Fordham has grown from a small college into the Jesuit University of New York, it continues reaching out to its local community through service, academic partnerships, and various other initiatives such as the Higher Education Opportunity Program for students from underrepresented groups. Today, the seed planted by John Hughes has flowered into a truly global university, one that continues to transform lives and transform the world through the dedication of its faculty and the work and achievements of its alumni across all fields of endeavor.

Honorary Degree Citation

Michelle Howard | Doctor of Humane Letters

Michelle Howard rose to the highest echelons of the U.S. Navy during a 35-year career in commands of ever-increasing size and scope, propelled by competence and character. She also broke barriers along the way—among other achievements, she became the first African American woman to command a Navy ship and the first woman to serve as a four-star Navy admiral. In so doing, she became a role model, a title she bears with the same surpassing sense of duty she brought to all of her military commands.

Growing up in Colorado, she thrilled to the idea of attending a service academy, even though they were closed to women. Her mother encouraged her ambitions, though, and she enrolled in the U.S. Naval Academy just two years after the exclusion of women was ended. She graduated in 1982 and later served in operations Desert Storm and Iraqi Freedom; the peacekeeping effort in the former Republic of Yugoslavia; and tsunami relief efforts in Indonesia. In 2009, she was commander of a U.S. Navy task force that dealt with Somali pirates holding an American ship captain hostage on a life raft off the African coast, a situation later dramatized in the movie Captain Phillips. Faced with a crisis that had no playbook, she harnessed the power of diversity, bringing together people of varied backgrounds to generate the ideas that made the rescue operation a success.

In the final years of her career, Admiral Howard served as vice chief of naval operations and as commander of U.S. naval forces in Europe and Africa. A graduate of the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, where she earned a master's degree in 1998, she served on the faculty at George Washington University after retiring from the Navy in 2017. In February 2021, she was named to a congressionally mandated commission on renaming military installations whose names commemorate the Confederacy.

Admiral Howard has always strived for diversity, equity, and inclusion, by helping others and by setting an example. Through her commitment to excellence, she has provided hope and possibility for others trying to overcome barriers of gender or race in pursuit of their dreams.

For her extraordinary achievements and for her pathbreaking leadership in the U.S. armed forces, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Michelle Howard Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa. That she may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 22nd day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-One.

This degree will be presented virtually at the University Commencement ceremony on 22 May 2021.

Honorary Degree Citation

Hillary Rodham Clinton | Doctor of Laws

Throughout her long and distinguished career in American public life, Hillary Rodham Clinton has not only made history but also made an impact on personal histories everywhere. As a lawyer, activist, speaker, senator, and diplomat, she has spent decades fighting to empower people—especially children and families—and to bring about a more just and equitable society.

Her passion for social justice was ignited in her childhood when she heard Martin Luther King Jr. speak during a trip to Chicago with her youth ministry. She began her career in law and public service after graduating from Wellesley College and Yale Law School, where she met her future husband, Bill Clinton. After working as a staff attorney with the Children's Defense Fund and as a member of the impeachment inquiry staff in the House of Representatives in 1974, she moved to Arkansas with Bill. In Arkansas, she ran legal clinics serving the disenfranchised, founded one of the state's first child advocacy groups, and championed improvements in health and educational policy during her husband's governorship. Then, as first lady of the United States from 1993 to 2001, she helped to create the Children's Health Insurance Program, which provided coverage to more than 8 million children.

With her election to the U.S. Senate in 2000, Clinton became the first woman to win statewide office in New York. As senator, she helped secure federal funding for rebuilding New York after the 9/11 attacks, worked to secure health care for responders at Ground Zero, and launched initiatives to help New York farms and small businesses find new markets for their products. In 2009, she moved into a new role on the international stage as secretary of state under President Barack Obama. In addition to building a coalition for sanctions that paved the way for the nuclear accord with Iran, she forcefully championed human rights and new opportunities for women and girls, people of color, LGBT people, and young people worldwide. In 2016 she became the first woman to earn a major party's nomination for U.S. president. After the election, she founded Onward Together, an organization devoted to advancing progressive values and bringing about a fairer and more inclusive America. Clinton has also authored several bestselling books, including It Takes a Village, focused on how society can help children grow into capable, caring adults.

For all she has done to bring people together and secure the blessings of peace, security, well-being, and opportunity for all, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Hillary Rodham Clinton Doctor of Laws, honoris causa. That she may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 22nd day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-One.

This degree will be presented during the School of Law virtual diploma ceremony on 23 May 2021.

Honorary Degree Citation

Edward M. Stroz | Doctor of Humane Letters

Throughout his career in law enforcement and cybersecurity, Ed Stroz has brought ingenuity and humanistic perspective to problems often shrouded in technical jargon. In so doing, he has not only helped make the information age safer and more secure for all of us, but he has also demonstrated an enlightened response to threats arising from our complex, interconnected world.

A native of Manhattan's Yorkville neighborhood, Stroz earned a bachelor's degree from Fordham in 1979 and worked in banking and accounting before joining the FBI as a special agent in 1984. At the bureau, he investigated public corruption, arson, and major international financial crimes, and in 1996, just as the internet was taking off, he created and led the New York bureau's computer crime squad. Four years later, he founded the digital forensics firm Stroz Friedberg (now known as Aon Cyber Solutions).

As the firm's co-president from 2000 until December 2020, he oversaw its growth and advised clients responding to internet extortions, denial-of-service attacks, computer hacking, insider abuse, theft of trade secrets, and electronic discovery matters. He was highlighted by Fortune Magazine in 2016 for his pioneering use of behavioral science to gain insights about the intent and state of mind of computer users. "Human behavior is the key to crime," he told Fordham Magazine in 2010. "No law in the books ever threw a computer in jail."

Stroz, now a freelance consultant, has generously shared his expertise with Fordham. In 2009, he helped the University take a major step toward establishing its own leadership in the internet security field by co-organizing the first International Conference on Cyber Security, hosted by Fordham in partnership with the FBI. The conference, held every 18 months, attracts top law enforcement officers and industry professionals. Stroz has been a frequent expert panelist at the conference, integral to its success both behind the scenes and in front of audiences.

A Fordham trustee fellow, Stroz has been an adviser to the Center on Law and Information Policy at Fordham Law School, and he and his wife, Sally Spooner, have been magnanimous in their support for the Gabelli School of Business at Fordham, establishing both an endowed faculty chair in accounting and an endowed scholarship for students in the program.

For skillfully bridging the public and private sectors to promote cyber resilience, and for his tireless efforts on behalf of his alma mater, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Edward M. Stroz Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa. That he may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 22nd day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-One.

This degree will be presented at the Gabelli School of Business diploma ceremony for master's and doctoral candidates on 25 May 2021.

Candidates for Degrees to Be Conferred

The lists that appear in this booklet were prepared by the registrar prior to 22 May 2021 and do not represent the final lists of graduates, except where stated as conferred.

These were the words addressed to the members of the graduating class of St. John's College (now Fordham University) in 1847:

I am commissioned by the faculty of St. John's College to hand each of you a diploma of Bachelor of Arts. This diploma is the solemn and authentic proof of the favorable judgment which the Faculty of this institution, after due examination and mature consideration, have formed both of your intellectual capacity and of your moral conduct and principles. By these documents which are public, by the authority from which they emanate, by the object they have in view, and by the circumstances under which they are handed to you, we [expect that] by the rectitude of your future conduct and steady application of your respective duties, you [will] justify our decision.

For, let me impress upon your minds that, by asking for and receiving the[se] academic honors, you enter into a solemn and public engagement to show yourselves worthy of the distinction which is conferred on you. This distinction is conferred upon you, not in our name, but in the name and by the authority of the Republic, and to the Republic both we and you are responsible. If the Republic invests us with a discretionary power to decorate with these distinctions those whom we judge worthy, it expects, and it has a right to expect, that they should show themselves on all occasions, in word and in deed, friends of law and order, defenders of truth and justice, supporters of sound morality.

Receive your diploma of Bachelor of Arts, and remember the engagements which you contract.

University Heraldry

Banners of Fordham University

A set of academic banners depicting the distinguishing characteristics and proud history of each of the Schools, Colleges, and other major constituent groups of the University were commissioned for Commencement 2004. The name of each of these groups (rendered in Latin) encircles the central shield, while the founding date of each is marked across the buckle at the seal's base. Crowning each banner illustration are the Greek letters of the name of Jesus, taken from the coat of arms of the Society of Jesus.

All the individual banner illustrations relate visually to the composition of the Great Seal of Fordham University (shown above).

University Heraldry

FORDHAM COLLEGE AT ROSE HILL

Fordham College at Rose Hill is represented by the triumphant or risen lamb of God, the Tudor Rose—representing Rose Hill Manor, the property from which Fordham University grew—and the scallop shell representing St. John the Baptist, the patron saint of the University.

GABELLI SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

The Gabelli School of Business is represented by the globe, scroll, and book, showing business education, an education that embraces a global perspective and an international marketplace.

University Heraldry

FORDHAM SCHOOL OF PROFESSIONAL AND CONTINUING STUDIES

Fordham School of Professional and Continuing Studies is represented by the cauldron and wolves from the central portion of the family shield of St. Ignatius Loyola, founder of the Jesuit order, who—like the students of this School—was an adult learner. St. Ignatius' ancient and distinguished family name "Loyola" is a contraction of the Spanish words Lobos y Olla: wolves and pot.

FORDHAM COLLEGE AT LINCOLN CENTER

Fordham College at Lincoln Center is represented by the central portion of the seal of the City of New York—a windmill, symbolizing New Amsterdam, the original Dutch colonial name for the city. In turn, it frames beavers, symbolic of trade, and casks, the symbols for the commerce pursued by New York City's founders.

University Heraldry

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF RELIGION AND RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Fordham's Graduate School of Religion and Religious Education is represented by an open book displaying Alpha and Omega, the Greek letters symbolizing Jesus as the beginning and the end of all things. Arising from behind the volume is a cross and its radii of light.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Fordham's Graduate School of Education is represented by the torch of knowledge and the book of learning, as well as the laurel wreath, representing poetics. These symbols are also found on the seals of many schools, colleges, and universities.

University Heraldry

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Fordham's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences is represented by the owl of Pallas Athene, the goddess of wisdom and rational inquiry. The ancient classical traditions and the modern humanities and sciences join together in the curricular offerings of the arts and sciences.

Pallas Athene's name is spelled out in Greek letters.

SCHOOL OF LAW

The School of Law is symbolized by the scales of justice, a heraldic device that bears witness to the central work of the School: scholarly study and professional practice of jurisprudence and legal affairs.

University Heraldry

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SERVICE

Fordham's Graduate School of Social Service is represented by the symbols for the virtues of faith, hope, and charity. The cross represents Christian faith; the anchor represents hope—last to leave Pandora's box when all other blessings within had disappeared; the heart represents charity.

ALUMNI OF FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

The alumni of Fordham University are represented by the Fordham Ram, which the University adopted as its mascot in 1893. This historic version of the Ram's head, cast in bronze, appears in repoussé on the antique iron doors of Dealy Hall on the Rose Hill campus.

University Heraldry

FACULTY SENATE OF FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

The Faculty Senate of Fordham University is represented by the book of learning and the Fordham University mace. The image of the mace signifies the leadership of the Faculty Senate in the academic governance of the University. The President of the Faculty Senate bears the University mace at each University convocation.

FACULTIES OF FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

The Faculties of Instruction of Fordham University are represented by the book of knowledge and the lamp of learning, which recall the motto of the University: Sapientia et Doctrina (Wisdom and Learning).

University Heraldry

ADMINISTRATION OF FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

The administration of Fordham University is represented by elements found on the coat of arms of New York's first Archbishop, John Hughes, founder of Fordham University. The crossed keys represent St. Peter, and the mitre signals the rank of John Hughes as bishop.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF FORDHAM UNIVERSITY

The Board of Trustees of Fordham University is represented by the Great Seal of Fordham University, and the date of incorporation of St. John's College, the University's original name.

Commencement Traditions

Academic Attire

The wearing of caps, gowns, and hoods at college and university functions dates back to the Middle Ages. Monks and students of those days wore them to keep warm in the drafty 12th-century castles and halls of learning.

The academic gown in America has traditionally been black, although many universities have now authorized doctoral gowns in the universities' own colors. The maroon gowns worn by the trustees display the official color of Fordham University. The cut of the gown identifies the degree. The bachelor's gown has pointed sleeves and is worn closed. The master's gown has oblong-cut sleeves and is worn open or closed. The doctoral gown, which is also worn open or closed, has bell-shaped sleeves, usually crossed with bands of velvet.

The hood is the most distinctive feature of academic attire in the United States. It was once a cowl, but is now worn only for decorative purposes, thrown over the back and suspended from the shoulders. The length of the hood indicates the level of the degree. The color of the velvet border identifies the field of learning in which the degree was earned. These colors include scarlet for theology; white for arts, letters, and humanities; brown for fine arts; gold for science; light blue for education; copper for economics; dark blue for philosophy; drab for business; citron for social service; purple for law; and lemon for library science. The inner lining of the hood proclaims the color or colors of the institution awarding the degree.

Maroon, the Official University Color

Fordham's official color was originally magenta, but magenta was also used by Fordham's archrival, Harvard University. Since it was considered improper for two schools to be wearing the same color, the matter was to be settled by a series of baseball games. The winning team could lay claim to magenta; the losing team would have to find a new color. Fordham won, but Harvard reneged on its promise.

Later, in 1874, at a meeting of the student body, one of the matters discussed was that of choosing an official college color that would belong to Fordham and Fordham alone. Stephen Wall, Class of 1875, suggested maroon, a color not widely used at the time. He explained that it looked "something like claret wine with the sun shining through it." The committee charged with determining the official college color unanimously agreed, and maroon has been the official color ever since. Ironically, Harvard also stopped using magenta in favor of crimson.

The Fordham University Mace

The use of maces, originally used as weapons, became ceremonial as they were borne by sergeants-at-arms, the royal bodyguards of England and France, in the 12th century. By the 14th century, maces became more decorative and were dressed up in gold and silver. Today, maces are often carried before academic bodies as a symbol of jurisdiction. The Fordham University mace is traditionally carried at the University Commencement by the President of the Faculty Senate, who serves as the Grand Marshal of the academic procession.

Fordham's mace, three feet in length, bears a regal crown at the summit to denote the delegated sovereignty of the University from the State of New York to grant academic degrees. Above the crown is a cross composed of four windmill sails to signify the faith and the Dutch founding fathers of New Amsterdam. The center of the cross displays a heraldic rose for Rose Hill. Immediately beneath the crown is a support with the Fordham seal emblazoned. The upper node of the staff is decorated with three heraldic roses, the Fordham seal, the ram's head, and a silhouette of Fordham at Lincoln Center. The names of Fordham's schools are engraved above the node, and the names of Fordham's presidents from 1841 to 2003 are engraved below the node. The mace was a gift to the University from the Fordham University Alumni Federation.

Commencement Traditions

Fordham University Verges

The use of verges is another ritual dating back to the Middle Ages when pageantry heralded the approach of the noble. In those days, the processions of leading citizens were commonly led by verge-carrying emissaries. A verge took the form of a unique staff emblematic of the ruling house over which the person presided.

The University commissioned the fashioning of verges to be carried by the marshals of its academic processions to mark the inauguration of Joseph M. McShane, S.J., as the 32nd president of Fordham. The Fordham University verges stand 48 inches tall and measure one inch in diameter. They are cast in aluminum with brass fittings. Each verge is a perfectly balanced staff designed to be carried by the lead marshal over his or her right shoulder.

The verges' top center medallions are etched with the Great Seal of the University on one side and a historic version of the University's mascot (the Ram) on the other. The ram's head depicted on the verges is based on an image that appears on the antique iron doors of Dealy Hall. Under the ram's head are two scrolls similar to the scroll found on the Great Seal of the University. The upper, and larger, scroll on each of the verges bears the name of one of the nine schools of the University; the lower, and smaller, scroll bears the year of the school's founding. The remaining verges are carried by representatives of the major groups within the Fordham family who serve the University and its students: the Board of Trustees, the faculty, the administration, and the alumni.

The Victory Bell

The ringing of the Victory Bell signals the beginning of the University Commencement. Presented to Fordham by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, L.L.D., Class of 1944, the ship's bell of the Japanese warship Junyo stands in front of the gymnasium on the Rose Hill campus. On 11 May 1946, the Charter Centenary of the University, President Harry S. Truman became the first to ring the Victory Bell on campus. Today, it traditionally peals following Ram victories.

Edwards Parade

Edwards Parade, formerly the University's football field, was laid out as a traditional college quadrangle in 1930 and named for Major General Clarence R. Edwards. An instructor of Fordham's military cadets in the 1890s, Edwards later commanded the 26th Yankee Division in World War I.

The Terrace of the Presidents

Robert Gannon, S.J., president of Fordham University from 1936 to 1949, initiated the custom of engraving the granite steps between Edwards Parade and the Keating Hall Terrace with the names of heads of state who have received honorary doctorates from Fordham. Among the names included are President Franklin Delano Roosevelt (1940), President Harry S. Truman (1946), President Corazon Aquino of the Philippines (1986), President Mary Robinson of Ireland (1995), President Mary McAleese of Ireland (2010), President Benigno S. Aquino III of the Philippines (2011), and President Hage G. Geingob, FCRH '70, of Namibia (2015).

Keating Hall

Built in 1936, Keating Hall was named for Joseph Keating, S.J., University treasurer from 1910 to 1948. The offices of Fordham College at Rose Hill, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, Fordham School of Professional and Continuing Studies, the Graduate School of Religion and Religious Education, and the Summer Session are housed in Keating Hall.

O Alma Mater Fordham

The musical score is written on seven staves in a single system. Each staff begins with a treble clef, a key signature of one flat (B-flat), and a common time signature (C). The lyrics are printed below the notes, with some words split across lines. The melody is simple and hymn-like, with a final double bar line at the end of the seventh staff.

O Al - ma Ma - ter Ford - ham, How
O Al - ma Ma - ter Ford - ham, While
