FORDHAM

Sapientia et Doctrina

WISDOM AND LEARNING

“Wisdom and learning shall be the stability of thy times.”

—Adapted from Isaiah 33:6

THE FORDHAM UNIVERSITY SEAL

The Great Seal of Fordham University proclaims that Fordham has been a Jesuit university since its founder, Archbishop John Hughes, entrusted it to the care of the Society of Jesus five years after its founding in 1841. Hence, the coat of arms of the Society of Jesus stands at the center of the Great Seal of the University. The coat of arms bears the Greek letters for the name Jesus—IHS—with the cross resting in the horizontal line of the letter H, and the three nails beneath in a field framed in maroon, the color of the University, with fleurs-de-lis on the edge of the maroon frame. Around the Society's coat of arms is a scroll with the University's motto, Sapientia et Doctrina (Wisdom and Learning). The scroll rests on a field in which tongues of fire are displayed, recalling the outpouring of the gifts of the Holy Spirit of wisdom (sapientia) that marked the first Pentecost.

A laurel wreath at the center of which are listed the names of the disciplines that are or have been taught at the University rests at the top of the seal. (The University had a medical school from 1905 to 1919 and a college of pharmacy from 1912 to 1971.) These central heraldic devices are enclosed within a circular field fashioned as a belt and edged with beads. The field bears the University's name (rendered in Latin) and the date of its foundation. Fordham University is one of only two institutions in the world whose seals are enclosed with a belt surround. Oxford University, the mother of the universities in the English-speaking world, is the other university whose seal is fashioned in this way.

Fordham: A Story of Transformation

Fordham University began in the mind and heart of John Hughes, the Irish-born Catholic bishop who would later become the first archbishop of New York. He believed fervently in the power of education to help downtrodden Catholic immigrants advance in America, and traveled as far as Europe to raise funds for buying the plot of rustic land north of Manhattan—in what is today the Bronx—where he saw a great university taking root. Initially named St. John's College, the school opened at Rose Hill on June 24, 1841, with just six students but big ambitions. St. John's became a Jesuit college five years later, after Hughes sold it to the Society of Jesus.

In 1907, St. John's College was renamed Fordham University—a transformation that began two years earlier with the opening of its first graduate schools: a medical school, discontinued in 1921, and a law school that is widely regarded today as one of the best in the nation. Graduate schools of education, arts and sciences, and social service were established in 1916, and the School of Accounting—forerunner of the Gabelli School of Business—opened in 1920, housed in Manhattan's Woolworth Building. A college of pharmacy was also established in this period, lasting until 1971. In 1944, Fordham founded what would become the School of Professional and Continuing Studies, and the Graduate School of Religion and Religious Education began in 1969.

The establishment of the Lincoln Center campus in the 1960s was a milestone in the University's rise to greater prominence. In the following decades, Fordham made major strides toward becoming a national and global institution with the opening of new residence halls at both the Rose Hill and Lincoln Center campuses; the construction of the William D. Walsh Family Library at Rose Hill; the opening of the Fordham London campus; and the Lincoln Center campus redevelopment completed in 2016.

As Fordham has grown from a small college into the Jesuit University of New York, it continues reaching out to its local community through service, academic partnerships, and various other initiatives such as the Higher Education Opportunity Program for students from underrepresented groups. Today, the seed planted by John Hughes has flowered into a truly global university, one that continues to transform lives and transform the world through the dedication of its faculty and the work and achievements of its alumni across all fields of endeavor.

Wilton Cardinal Gregory | Doctor of Divinity

An inspiring symbol of courage and compassion, Wilton Cardinal Gregory has celebrated his faith with joyful inclusion and an eye toward justice. From his hometown of Chicago to the Archdiocese of Washington, he has dedicated his ministry to speaking truth to power and speaking up for marginalized people and underrepresented communities.

Inspired by the clergy and nuns at St. Carthage Catholic School on Chicago's South Side, he converted to Catholicism at the age of 11 and began his preparation for the priesthood. After his ordination in 1973, he earned a doctoral degree in sacred liturgy at the Pontifical Liturgical Institute in Rome. He served as auxiliary bishop of Chicago from 1983 to 1993, when he was appointed bishop of Belleville, Illinois.

He rose to national prominence in 2001, when he was elected president of the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops. Responding to the clerical sexual abuse crisis in the Catholic Church, he was the architect of a binding national policy to remove from ministry any priest known to have ever abused a minor, and to report child sexual abuse to the civil authorities.

He was appointed archbishop of Atlanta by Pope John Paul II in 2004. In that role, he welcomed LGBTQ Catholics and worked to create a more hospitable environment for them in the church and the local community. In doing so, he underscored his "pastoral obligation to reach out to all men and women in the same manner that Christ did ... even when they found themselves outside of the religious and cultural norms of His own time."

Pope Francis named him archbishop of Washington in 2019 and, one year later, elevated him to the College of Cardinals, the first African American priest to be so honored. From one of the country's most influential archdioceses, Cardinal Gregory has encouraged Catholics and the church to be more deeply engaged with the social challenges of our time, including equal rights and environmental stewardship. Cardinal Gregory's impassioned faith and ecclesiastical commitment to justice, equality, and inclusivity find expression in his words and in his works, an embodiment of the living Gospel reflected in the motto he selected for his personal coat of arms: We are the Lord's.

For his steadfast leadership and continued ministry to the marginalized and most vulnerable, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare His Eminence Wilton Cardinal Gregory Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa. That he may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 21st day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-Two.

This degree was presented at the Baccalaureate Mass at Rose Hill on 20 May 2022.

Bill Baccaglini | Doctor of Humane Letters

In a career spanning five decades, Bill Baccaglini has demonstrated a deep commitment to ensuring the well-being of children, adults, and families. As president and CEO of The New York Foundling from 2003 through 2021, he brought renewed purpose and rigor to one of the oldest and largest child welfare organizations in the country, expanding mental health services and creating educational opportunities for people working to realize their full potential.

Prior to leading The Foundling, Baccaglini helped create the New York State Office of Children and Family Services and served as its first director of strategic planning and policy development. When he joined The Foundling as president and CEO, he modernized an organization that was founded as an orphanage by the Sisters of Charity in 1869. Shifting its focus from residential care to evidence-based practices, he helped The Foundling provide better care to its constituents while regularly sharing actionable data and practical training techniques with other agencies serving children and families. During his tenure, The Foundling more than doubled its programming for people with developmental disabilities.

Baccaglini also centered education as a primary service of The Foundling. To ensure students in the child welfare system have the best chance for success, he established the Mott Haven Academy Charter School, which offers elementary and middle school students comprehensive support services and a full curriculum. He also formed a partnership with the City University of New York (CUNY) and the New York City Administration for Children's Services, through which The Foundling provides financial and other support for foster youth attending colleges in the CUNY system.

To this day, he remains deeply committed to encouraging the next generation of nonprofit leaders. In 2018, when The Foundling established scholarships and internship opportunities for Fordham and New York University students pursuing careers in social work, he said he hoped they would “provide a spark—pointing a few more promising students our way—and toward a career making a difference in children's lives.”

For his passionate advocacy for children, adults, and families, and his faith in the power of people to transform their own lives through education, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Bill Baccaglini Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa. That he may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 21st day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-Two.

This degree will be presented at the Graduate School of Social Service diploma ceremony on 24 May 2022.

Kim Bepler | Doctor of Humane Letters

For the better part of two decades, Kim Bepler has helped shape students' intellectual, spiritual, and social life at Fordham University. As one of the most generous benefactors of the Fordham family, she has taken to heart the Jesuit principle of magis, always seeking to advance the greater good in the service of others. She continues to demonstrate a faithful devotion to the university she came to know and love through her husband, Steve Bepler, a 1964 Fordham graduate and former trustee who passed away in 2016.

Working together to advance the University's Catholic and Jesuit mission, the Beplers have funded an array of initiatives touching nearly every aspect of the Fordham experience. They have endowed and contributed to many scholarship funds that support students with limited financial resources but world-changing potential. They have bolstered research and teaching by endowing seven faculty chairs, including five in the STEM fields of biology, chemistry, mathematics/data science, and physics. They have also contributed to the restoration of the University Church and the 2012 installation of its Maior dei Gloria organ, which rings out this weekend for the greater glory of God in celebration of the Class of 2022.

In 2007, the Beplers received the Fordham Founder's Award, given to individuals whose personal and professional lives reflect the highest aspirations of the University's defining traditions, as an institution dedicated to wisdom and learning in the service of others. And in 2014, the University named Bepler Commons, the special events space in Faber Hall, in honor of the couple's multifaceted, magnanimous support of the Fordham community.

Most recently, Kim Bepler, a Fordham trustee fellow, established a fund to provide emergency financial help to Fordham students whose lives have been upended by the Russian invasion of Ukraine. She also contributed to the creation of the Joseph M. McShane, S.J. Campus Center. The first phase of the project—a four-story addition to the old campus center—opened in February and quickly became a warm, welcoming home for students. She was inspired to support this ongoing renovation and expansion project, she said, because the building is named for Father McShane and because of the central role it plays in fostering the development of students outside the classroom. A former director of business development at Cahners Travel Group, she has also given generously to a variety of educational institutions and causes beyond Fordham, including the Archdiocese of New York, New York Nativity Schools, and Cristo Rey New York High School in Harlem.

For her exceptional generosity in sharing her time, talent, and treasure to build up the Fordham family, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Kim Bepler Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa. That she may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 21st day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-Two.

Sr. Rosamond Blanchet, R.S.H.M. | Doctor of Humane Letters

Upon her 2013 election as general superior of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary worldwide, Sister Rosamond Blanchet, R.S.H.M., stated simply, “God always surprises.” Carrying out such surprises with faith and constancy—and her characteristic joy—has been a hallmark of her six-decade vocation as a Catholic nun. Sister Rosamond, or Sister Roz as she is known to most everyone, entered the R.S.H.M. in 1962, the same year she graduated from Marymount College, which was part of Fordham University from 2002 until its closing in 2007. Initially an elementary school teacher and principal in Queens, she later served as independent living coordinator with Good Shepherd Services for young women and subsequently as pastoral associate at a parish in Rumson, New Jersey.

Throughout the 1980s, Sister Roz served as formation director for the order’s Eastern American Province before being named provincial councilor in 1997. Six years later, she became provincial superior of more than 200 sisters living and working in the eastern United States and at Marymount International Schools in Rome, England, and France. This was followed by four years of ministry as associate vicar for religious in the Archdiocese of New York.

Her election to general superior in 2013 marked the first time an American-born sister from the Eastern American Province was responsible for R.S.H.M. life and mission in 14 countries around the world. During her six-year tenure, Sister Roz recommitted the order to helping marginalized and displaced women and children, and initiated social justice and environmental stewardship programs in keeping with the congregation’s guiding principle: Ut Vitam Habeant, “that all may have life.”

In 2005, Sister Roz fittingly accepted the Gloria Gaines Medal from Marymount College on behalf of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary. Typically awarded to individuals who have made significant volunteer contributions to the Marymount community, the medal was awarded to the entire congregation, which founded the college in 1907. It was an expression of appreciation for continuing enrichment of the lives of Marymount alumnae and embodiment of the very same faith, compassion, and dedication that define a Marymount education and drive its alumnae to reach for surprising heights.

For her open-hearted devotion to lifting up women and children, and to embodying the life-giving message of the Gospels, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Sister Rosamond Blanchet Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa. That she may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 21st day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-Two.

Mandell Crawley | Doctor of Humane Letters

A versatile executive and influential mentor, Mandell Crawley is driven by what he considers an inherent responsibility to make the world a better place. Throughout his 30-year career with Morgan Stanley, where he is currently chief human resources officer, he has embodied the very characteristics that define a Jesuit style of leadership: self-awareness, adaptability, discernment, and a talent for engaging and empowering people with empathy and respect.

Crawley grew up on the West Side of Chicago. Raised by his grandparents following the loss of his parents, he found extra support in his community, particularly through the Boys & Girls Clubs of Chicago. He started his career at Morgan Stanley in 1992, while still in high school, as a work-study intern on a municipal bond sales and trading desk. He remained with the firm while attending college at night and, after earning a bachelor's degree in economics from Northeastern Illinois University, moved to a position at Morgan Stanley's New York City headquarters.

He landed his first management role at the firm in 2004 and later enrolled in the executive MBA program at Fordham's Gabelli School of Business. Since graduating in 2009, he has risen to a series of high-profile, senior leadership positions through ambition, hard work, and a willingness to step outside his comfort zone. He led national business development for the firm's wealth management division and was the firm's chief marketing officer for three years, from 2014 to 2017, before taking over its private wealth management business. In early 2021, he was named chief human resources officer. Charged with stewarding and shaping the firm's culture, he is currently working to foster a more diverse, equitable work environment while continuing to ensure the firm's growth in a rapidly changing world.

In all of his endeavors, Crawley is committed to helping others find their place and their voice, especially young people. He serves on the Board of Governors of the Boys & Girls Clubs of America, and he is a former board member of Covenant House New York, which provides services to youth experiencing homelessness. He is also a regular presence at Fordham, generously offering his experience and expertise to the next generation of leaders.

For his collaborative spirit, compassionate leadership, and unwavering commitment to empowering others in the Ignatian tradition, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Mandell Crawley Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa. That he may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 21st day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-Two.

Patrick J. Foye | Doctor of Humane Letters

Born and bred in New York, Patrick J. Foye is highly regarded for the integrity, fiscal pragmatism, and nonpartisan spirit he brought to his leadership of the Metropolitan Transit Authority and the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey. In each of these roles, he exemplified the same traits that define his native city: bold and ambitious, decisive and determined.

The son of Irish immigrants, Foye grew up in Jackson Heights, Queens, and was the first in his family to go to college. He graduated cum laude from Fordham College at Rose Hill in 1978 and, three years later, earned his Juris Doctor degree from Fordham Law School, where he served as associate editor of The Fordham Law Review. Following a successful career in the private sector—as an attorney specializing in mergers and acquisitions, and an executive at a real estate investment trust—Foye brought his financial, deal-making acumen to public service. He earned the admiration and trust of power brokers and politicians on both sides of the aisle. Governor George E. Pataki appointed him deputy chairman of the Long Island Power Authority, and he served under Governor Eliot Spitzer as downstate chairman of the Empire State Development Corporation.

In 2011, he was confirmed as executive director of the Port Authority under Governor Andrew Cuomo. After leading the Port Authority through Superstorm Sandy, he ended and helped bring to light what came to be known as the Bridgagate scandal, the politically motivated closure of access lanes between Fort Lee, New Jersey, and the George Washington Bridge. He also led the rebuilding of LaGuardia Airport in a $5 billion public-private partnership. He went on to serve as president of the Metropolitan Transit Authority from 2017 to 2019, when he was confirmed as its chairman and CEO. In his two years at the helm, he procured billions in federal funds to keep the MTA solvent during the COVID-19 pandemic and, most recently, ensured funding to modernize the city's transportation system and make it work more efficiently and more effectively for everyone.

He served as chairman of a papal charity, Aid to the Church in Need, for a number of years, and now serves as CEO of an infrastructure public-private partnership firm. His ties to Fordham are as extensive and as deep as the agencies he has led. His wife, Suzanne, earned her bachelor's and master's degrees from Fordham, and two of the couple's daughters graduated from Fordham College at Lincoln Center.

For his consummate professionalism and his deep commitment to serving the people of New York, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Patrick J. Foye Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa. That he may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 21st day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-Two.

Laura Taylor Swain | Doctor of Laws

Throughout her long career on the federal bench, Laura Taylor Swain, Chief Judge of the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York, has presided with focus and integrity over complicated, high-profile cases involving financial fraud, health care, immigration, the environment, and bankruptcy. Widely regarded as a deliberate and insightful jurist, she is celebrated by prosecutors and plaintiffs' and defense attorneys alike for her fearlessness in issuing major rulings, and for consistently rendering justice equally and impartially, with an abiding fidelity to the rule of law.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, she graduated from Hunter College High School in 1975 before earning a bachelor's degree in government cum laude at Harvard University's Radcliffe College in 1979 and a Juris Doctor degree at Harvard Law School three years later. She began her legal career in 1982 as a clerk for the trailblazing civil rights strategist and litigator Constance Baker Motley, then Chief Judge of the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York. In the 1950s and 1960s, Motley was a key member of the team that litigated Brown v. Board of Education and many other groundbreaking cases challenging Jim Crow laws. She was the first Black woman to argue before the Supreme Court, and she later became the first Black woman appointed to the federal bench. In 2018, Judge Swain paid tribute to her mentor: "She [worked] to make a world in which everyone had the opportunity to excel and to serve, and I think that's what each of us should do. That's certainly what I seek to do every day."

For more than a decade, Judge Swain practiced at Debevoise & Plimpton, where she focused on employee benefits, compensation, and employment law. In 1986, she joined the New York State Board of Law Examiners, becoming the first woman and the first person of color to serve on that board. She began her tenure on the federal bench in 1996 as a judge of the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of New York, where she managed a docket of more than 6,000 cases. In 2000, President Bill Clinton appointed her to the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York.

From the bench of one of the nation's premier legal institutions, she has presided over numerous prominent cases, including the criminal prosecution of several former employees of Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities. In 2017, Chief Justice John G. Roberts appointed her to oversee the debt restructuring cases in the Puerto Rican government-debt crisis, the first-ever bankruptcy-like case of a U.S. territory.

For her distinguished contributions to the bench and her faithful stewardship of public trust and confidence in the law, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Laura Taylor Swain Doctor of Laws, honoris causa. That she may enjoy all rights and privileges of this, our highest honor, we have issued these letters patent under our hand and the corporate seal of the University on this, the 21st day of May in the Year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-Two.

Calvin O. Butts, III | Doctor of Divinity

Whether through stirring words of hope and faith or the day-to-day work of institutional leadership, the Rev. Dr. Calvin O. Butts, III, has spent his life lifting up and empowering others. While serving as pastor of Harlem's Abyssinian Baptist Church, one of the largest and most influential Black churches in the country, he has become renowned as an educator, activist, and impassioned advocate for racial and social justice.

Dr. Butts grew up in New York City, graduated from Morehouse College in 1972, and earned his Master of Divinity and Doctor of Ministry degrees from Union Theological Seminary and Drew University, respectively. During graduate school, he went to work at the Abyssinian Baptist Church, and in 1989 became head pastor, a position he holds to this day. Also in 1989, he turned his attention to renewing and uplifting the church's Harlem community by helping to found the Abyssinian Development Corporation, a nonprofit organization for which, today, he is chairman. In addition to enhancing social services, the corporation has fostered more than $1 billion in commercial development and housing, including more than 1,500 affordable rental units. Dr. Butts also played key roles in opening the Thurgood Marshall Academy Lower School in Harlem, as well as the Thurgood Marshall Academy for Learning and Social Change.

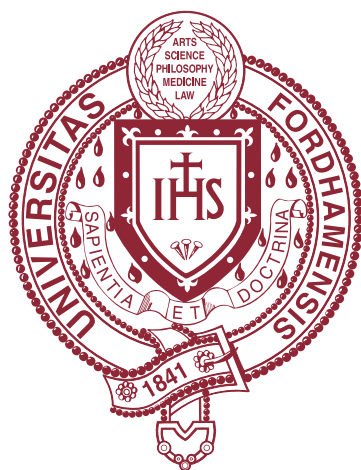

From 1999 to 2020, he proved to be a transformational leader as president of the State University of New York College at Old Westbury, the most racially and ethnically diverse school in the SUNY system. Under his leadership, it offered its first graduate programs, earned new accreditations, and expanded facilities, full-time faculty, and student support services. Dr. Butts has also held leadership roles in a wide array of organizations devoted to issues of race, health, and education. Among other roles, he is co-chair of Choose Healthy Life, a collaboration of Black clergy to address racial health disparities and protect Black communities against COVID-19.

Dr. Butts has served as an adjunct professor at Fordham, where he taught a course in Black church history. This spring, he joined Fordham's Graduate School of Education as a distinguished visiting professor in support of the Center for Catholic School Leadership and Faith-Based Education. It is Fordham's great good fortune to benefit from the insights into social, educational, religious, and ethical issues that he has gained throughout his illustrious career.

For his inspiring and empowering faith-based leadership in the areas of education, racial justice, and civic progress, we, the President and Trustees of Fordham University, in solemn convocation assembled and in accord with the chartered authority bestowed on us by the Regents of the University of the State of New York, declare Calvin O. Butts, III, Doctor of Divinity, honoris causa. Banners of Fordham University

A set of academic banners depicting the distinguishing characteristics and proud history of each of the Schools,

Colleges, and other major constituent groups of the University was commissioned for Commencement 2004.

The name of each of these groups (rendered in Latin) encircles the central shield, while the founding date of each is marked across the buckle at the seal's base. Crowning each banner illustration are the Greek letters of the name of Jesus, taken from the coat of arms of the Society of Jesus.

In 2016, the class banners were commissioned. The Class of 2022 banner is being carried by Class Marshals who will lead the candidates for degrees.

All the individual banner illustrations relate visually to the composition of the Great Seal of Fordham University (shown above).

Commencement Traditions

Academic Attire

The wearing of caps, gowns, and hoods at college and university functions dates back to the Middle Ages. Monks and students of those days wore them to keep warm in the drafty 12th-century castles and halls of learning.

The academic gown in America has traditionally been black, although many universities have now authorized doctoral gowns in the universities' own colors. The maroon gowns worn by the trustees display the official color of Fordham University. The cut of the gown identifies the degree. The bachelor's gown has pointed sleeves and is worn closed. The master's gown has oblong-cut sleeves and is worn open or closed. The doctoral gown, which is also worn open or closed, has bell-shaped sleeves, usually crossed with bands of velvet.

The hood is the most distinctive feature of academic attire in the United States. It was once a cowl, but is now worn only for decorative purposes, thrown over the back and suspended from the shoulders. The length of the hood indicates the level of the degree. The color of the velvet border identifies the field of learning in which the degree was earned. These colors include scarlet for theology; white for arts, letters, and humanities; brown for fine arts; gold for science; light blue for education; copper for economics; dark blue for philosophy; drab for business; citron for social service; purple for law; and lemon for library science. The inner lining of the hood proclaims the color or colors of the institution awarding the degree.

Maroon, the Official University Color

Fordham's official color was originally magenta, but magenta was also used by Fordham's archrival, Harvard University. Since it was considered improper for two schools to be wearing the same color, the matter was to be settled by a series of baseball games. The winning team could lay claim to magenta; the losing team would have to find a new color. Fordham won, but Harvard reneged on its promise.

Later, in 1874, at a meeting of the student body, one of the matters discussed was that of choosing an official college color that would belong to Fordham and Fordham alone. Stephen Wall, Class of 1875, suggested maroon, a color not widely used at the time. He explained that it looked "something like claret wine with the sun shining through it." The committee charged with determining the official college color unanimously agreed, and maroon has been the official color ever since. Ironically, Harvard also stopped using magenta in favor of crimson.

The Fordham University Mace

Maces, originally used as weapons, became ceremonial as they were borne by sergeants-at-arms, the royal bodyguards of England and France, in the 12th century. By the 14th century, maces became more decorative and were dressed up in gold and silver. Today, maces are often carried before academic bodies as a symbol of jurisdiction. The Fordham University mace is traditionally carried at the University Commencement by the President of the Faculty Senate, who serves as the Grand Marshal of the academic procession.

Fordham's mace, three feet in length, bears a regal crown at the summit to denote the delegated sovereignty of the University from the State of New York to grant academic degrees. Above the crown is a cross composed of four windmill sails to signify the faith and the Dutch founding fathers of New Amsterdam. The center of the cross displays a heraldic rose for Rose Hill. Immediately beneath the crown is a support with the Fordham seal emblazoned. The upper node of the staff is decorated with three heraldic roses, the Fordham seal, the ram's head, and a silhouette of Fordham at Lincoln Center. The names of Fordham's schools are engraved above the node, and the names of Fordham's presidents from 1841 to 2003 are engraved below the node. The mace was a gift to the University from the Fordham University Alumni Federation.

Commencement Traditions

Fordham University Verges

The use of verges is another ritual dating back to the Middle Ages, when pageantry heralded the approach of the noble. In those days, the processions of leading citizens were commonly led by verge-carrying emissaries. A verge took the form of a unique staff emblematic of the ruling house over which the person presided.

The University commissioned the fashioning of verges to be carried by the marshals of its academic processions to mark the inauguration of Joseph M. McShane, S.J., as the 32nd president of Fordham. The Fordham University verges stand 48 inches tall and measure one inch in diameter. They are cast in aluminum with brass fittings. Each verge is a perfectly balanced staff designed to be carried by the lead marshal over his or her right shoulder.

The verges' top center medallions are etched with the Great Seal of the University on one side and a historic version of the University's mascot (the Ram) on the other. The ram's head depicted on the verges is based on an image that appears on the antique iron doors of Dealy Hall. Under the ram's head are two scrolls similar to the scroll found on the Great Seal of the University. The upper, and larger, scroll on each of the verges bears the name of one of the nine schools of the University; the lower, and smaller, scroll bears the year of the school's founding. The remaining verges are carried by representatives of the major groups within the Fordham family that serve the University and its students: the Board of Trustees, the faculty, the administration, and the alumni.

The Victory Bell

The ringing of the Victory Bell signals the beginning of the University Commencement. Presented to Fordham by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, L.L.D., Class of 1944, the ship's bell of the Japanese warship Junyo stands in front of the gymnasium on the Rose Hill campus. On 11 May 1946, the Charter Centenary of the University, President Harry S. Truman became the first to ring the Victory Bell on campus. Today, it traditionally peals following Ram victories.

Edwards Parade

Edwards Parade, formerly the University's football field, was laid out as a traditional college quadrangle in 1930 and named for Major General Clarence R. Edwards. An instructor of Fordham's military cadets in the 1890s, Edwards later commanded the 26th Yankee Division in World War I.

The Terrace of the Presidents

Robert Gannon, S.J., president of Fordham University from 1936 to 1949, initiated the custom of engraving the granite steps between Edwards Parade and the Keating Hall Terrace with the names of heads of state who have received honorary doctorates from Fordham. Among the names included are President Franklin Delano Roosevelt (1940), President Harry S. Truman (1946), President Corazon Aquino of the Philippines (1986), President Mary Robinson of Ireland (1995), President Mary McAleese of Ireland (2010), President Benigno S. Aquino III of the Philippines (2011), and President Hage G. Geingob, FCRH '70, of Namibia (2015).

Keating Hall

Built in 1936, Keating Hall was named for Joseph Keating, S.J., University treasurer from 1910 to 1948. The offices of Fordham College at Rose Hill, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, Fordham School of Professional and Continuing Studies, the Graduate School of Religion and Religious Education, and the Summer Session are housed in Keating Hall.

O Alma Mater Fordham

The musical score is written on seven staves in a single system. The key signature has one flat (B-flat) and the time signature is common time (C). The melody is composed of eighth, quarter, and half notes, with some rests and a final double bar line. The lyrics are printed below the notes, with hyphens indicating syllables that span across multiple notes. The lyrics are as follows:

O Al - ma Ma - ter Ford - ham, How
O Al - ma Ma - ter Ford - ham, While migh - ty is thy power To link our hearts to yet the life - blood starts, Shrined be thy sac - red
